

I fully support a universal do-not-call covering all unsolicited facsimile advertising. We are a retired, handicapped couple who had no fax machine. We received at least one fax call each month (usually in the middle of the night). As a partial, non-satisfactory solution we purchased a used fax machine and now respond to each do-not-call number. A single don't-call number, if effective, would be a blessing and would let us rid ourselves of the unwanted fax machine.
